Three Killed as Train Hits Truck

Eight Others Hurt as 3:25 Crashes into Truck Loaded with Workmen Near Wilmington Line

Three men were killed and eight injured when a passenger train crashed into a truckload of workmen at 4:05 Tuesday afternoon in Ballardvale near the Wilmington line. At first believed to be in Wilmington, it was finally decided that the crash took place in Andover, thus raising the town's auto death toll to five for the year.

Irving J. Army, 27, of Millbury was instantly killed when his body struck the ground 100 feet from the crossing. Tremaine Parks, 30, of Stoneham, found sometime after the crash in the underbrush, died four hours later at the Tewksbury state hospital. They were both riding on the tailboard of the truck.

Edward J. Constantino, 33, of Worcester died about nine last night at the Lawrence General hospital from a fractured skull.

Four of the injured were removed to the Lawrence General hospital. Two were treated by Dr. Hartigan at his office. The Andover and North Andover ambulances both went to the scene of the accident.

Truck Tossed 50 Feet

The men had been working for the New England Power association on a new line, and were being taken to a Wakefield boarding house. The truck was on the tracks at a crossing used mainly for cattle, when the train came along, crashed into the rear and spun the truck around, hurling it fifty feet.

Two men were not accounted for after the accident, and the Wilmington chief of police, with Corporal Arthur O'Leary and trooper Frank Geist of the state police, called out 20 C.C.C. boys to search for them, believing that they may have wandered dazed into the woods. The new portable lighting set of the local fire department was used in the search. A radio appeal was broadcast during the night, asking all relatives of the working men to contact the police if anyone was missing. Later the check-up was made complete.

Henry M. Taylor, 21, of Stoneham, was the driver of the truck.

Passengers on the train, the 3.25 from Boston, were shifted over to the 4.00 o'clock train, with the crash engine proceeding to the Lawrence engine house after the track was cleared of wreckage.

Utilities Committee Against New Rate

The department of telephone and telegraph utilities does not feel that the studies made to date on the Lawrence-Andover toll call situation justify a change, according to a letter received this week by the Board of Selectmen. The letter added that, "If a vote by a referendum indicated that a substantial majority of the Andover subscribers desire the enlarged area, the Department would be glad to recommend such a change."

The letter resumed at length the various phases in this long controversy. In 1925 a referendum was held with 52 percent of those voting in favor of the change, but the department did not feel that this was sufficient support to make a change. In May, 1928, a personal canvass revealed that 52 percent were still in favor. On June 11, 1928, a hearing was held as a result of which an order was issued in November which decreed, with one member dissenting, that the change should not be made. In 1931 another referendum was held, showing 47.7 percent for the larger area. In July, 1932, a new limited service optional plan went into effect whereby the subscriber could have fifty calls in the entire district for $3.00 monthly.

POPPIES GO PATRIOTIC

An innovation in poppy days will be held here tomorrow when the local Legion post will sponsor the sale not only of the familiar red poppies but also of royal blue poppies for those Andoverites who are going to shout themselves blue at the Andover-Exeter game.

The proceeds of the sale will be used for Legion welfare work.

A group of girls will sell the poppies. Headmaster Claude M. Fuess has granted permission for the poppies to be sold within the field.

Stunt Night Next Friday at School

The Senior Class of Punchard High School, with the cooperation of the Junior and Sophomore classes, is holding a "Stunt Night" Friday, November 20, in the new auditorium. The entertainment consists of pantomimes, music, shadow plays, playlets and stunts. Tickets are being sold by members of the social committees of the three classes.

The committee in charge are Helen Beer, chairman; Marcelle Poisson, Andrew Innes, Josephine McNulty, Everett Gorrie, Reginald Wallace, Barbara Flanagan, Claire Goebel, John Anderson.

TO HOLD SUPPER BRIDGE

The Margaret Slattery class of the Free church will hold a supper bridge on Wednesday evening at the vestry. Supper will be served at 6:30 and bridge will follow. The committee: Mrs. Millie Foster, Mrs. David MacDonald and Miss Grace Lake.

Because of a season in which it has been undefeated, untied and unscored on, the Phillips academy football team goes into the annual Exeter game tomorrow a favorite to win, with the only stumbling-block in the local team's way being the old over-confidence bugaboo. The largest Brothers' field crowd in years is expected to pack the stands for the game. Exeter has lost only one game.

Lacking the individual stars of a year ago, the local team, made up of a few veterans, some of the 1935 grey jerseys, and a few new boys, one of whom had never played football before, has clicked as a Blue and White Team has not clicked in years. The blocking has been particularly effective this year, and while a great deal of credit is due the running backs for their long gallops, it has been the blocking that has paved the way for them.

Andover's Starters

On the ends Coach Flanagan will probably start Huffard, 159 pounds, a veteran, and Walter Rafferty, 170, brother of Kev Rafferty who would be playing regular end at Yale if the man ahead of him wasn't named Larry Kelley. Al Hearne, a Medford boy who never played football before, and Tom Johnson will sub at the ends.

the Canadian Provinces. In the next season at the age of eighteen, he was made a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra—one of the youngest ever to have been admitted. Mr. Tapley has since become a first violinist under the exacting baton of Dr. Koussevitzky.

Lloyd Stonestreet, born in this country of English parents, joined the Boston Symphony in 1920 under Pierre Monteux. Aside from his distinctive violinistic qualifications—purity of tone and a supple bow arm—his wide experience with many well-known ensembles has equipped him admirably to meet the most difficult requirements of chamber music. Mr. Stonestreet is director of the Panharmonic Orchestral Club.

STEAM VS. AIR

One disgruntled fireman, seeing an article in a Boston paper to the effect that as retribution for the $37 charge set by the school committee for the annual firemen's ball, the fire department might charge the committee for the steam used in blowing the no-school signal, (this sentence is already too long, but stick to it—we're going to) anyway, this disgruntled fireman stated that it wasn't steam, it's compressed air, and if the school committee met at the fire station, there'd be enough hot air to keep the whistle going all night. And from the way he talked, we assumed that if the firemen were anywhere around when the committee met, there'd be enough steam to keep it going all day and the next night.

JAIL-BREAK

Remember the time when someone broke out of the local lock-up in the rear of the town hall? We saw someone acting suspiciously in the town hall on Wednesday afternoon. He was behind the cage, and he was filing away diligently at the door with a real man-size file.

The only thing that allayed our suspicions was the fact that he was wearing the uniform of the chief of police, and inside the uniform he had the chief. The door just didn't fit right, that's all.

Theological Seminary [Professor Had to Do His Own Type-setting for Book He Wrote—Because It Was Written in Hebrew

Old Andover Houses

Hebrew grammar—there are very few of us here in Andover today who care much about this subject, but historically at least it has a place in Andover life, for it was here that the first Hebrew grammar was written and printed.

Professor Moses Stuart, known as "the father of Hebrew literature in America" was a most unusual man. While in Andover he lived in the house on the west side of Main street just past the group of dormitories and just before you come to Hidden road. His occupations varied in range from working in his hay field to composing tracts in obscure Oriental tongues, both of which occupations were frequently interfered with by attacks of acute dyspepsia.

That first Hebrew grammar was not only written by Professor Stuart; he even set the type for it! No one knew how to set Hebrew type down in the printing shop which at that time was just a few yards north of the Stuart house, and so the tall, lean professor hid himself over there and composed the book.

The first inhabitant of the Stuart house had a greater effect on religious writings than the mere publication of one Hebrew grammar would indicate, for many Seminary graduates, taking their inspiration from Professor Stuart's work, went to far off mission fields where they allowed no difficulties of language to prevent the writing and printing of religious works. And to jump from Hebrew to English, another book was written by an inhabitant of that house: Sarah Stuart Robbins, Professor Stuart's daughter who wrote her book, "Old Andover Days" about life on Andover hill as she saw it from Stuart house.

(Note—This is another in the series of articles on Old Andover Homes. The material for the above article was compiled from an article by Scott H. Paradise in a pamphlet entitled: "Some Old Houses and Historic Sites in Andover."

WHIST PARTY

A whist party will be held Wednesday afternoon by the Mothers club at the home of Mrs. Alexander Crockett on South Main street.

Police Station Is Entirely Changed

Considerable remodelling and moving around has been going on the past week in the police station, and the work is expected to be cleaned up shortly.

Chief of Police George A. Dane now has a large office, better than twice the size of his old one. It was formed by tearing down the partition between the old office and the tax collector's, the latter official having moved to the former B. P. W. office at the front of the building.

The partition between the outer office and what used to be the locker room has been torn down, and the cage which formerly split the outer office in two has been shifted to the place where the old partition stood. The old outer office is now a waiting room, the old locker room having become the outer office. From the latter room doors lead to the chief's private office, and to a new locker room, which is made up of small portions of the old chief's office and collector's office.

Amendment Making All Lame Duck Appointments Provisional Would Make Curley Ax Useless

There's a lame duck down in Boston swinging an ax around like mad, and many people who have served the Commonwealth for years are being cut down by that ax. The chopper, aided by a group of little lame duck choppers, is James M. Curley, who was told a week ago Tuesday what the people of this state Republican and Democrat alike, thought of him. And the people also told the little assistant choppers too what they thought of them, the result being that on December 31 Mr. Curley will have to cease his chopping and the executive council will again become a body of which the Commonwealth can be proud.

There's nothing to stop him now; he loses nothing by doing just what he wants. He's going out of office, and he doesn't have to answer to a voting public for his actions during these two months. Nor do his friends in the executive council; they too are going out of office, and their constituents mean nothing to them now. They are going ahead to appoint some men whose sole qualification is whether or not they supported Curley, kowtowed to Curley, and these political Yes-men will replace qualified men who have had years of experience in their various positions; men who have given the greater part of their lives to public service; men who were so busy working for the public that they had no time to work for politicians.

Probably the most despicable of all the group are the deposed councillors who it is expected will be given remunerative state positions for their work of the past two years in doing just what Curley asked them to. Elected in the 1934 Democratic sweep they swapped their consciences for a permanent job. In the same category with them is such men as the Republican head of the senate, James G. Moran, who time and time again sustained Curley on tie votes, thus aiding in some of the crimes against Massachusetts taxpayers that have taken place in the last two years. After his last submissive bow the Governor stated that Mr. Moran seemed very well qualified for any post in the public service. And so with a few other Republican turncoats Moran will probably get a permanent job.

There should be some way of stopping such lame-duck appointments. Thanks to the Norris amendment lame duck legislation has been halted in Washington, and Massachusetts should do something to halt our spanked public officials from doing the state permanent harm by their actions in the interim between the spanking and their actual retirement.

An amendment to make all gubernatorial appointments provisional and not permanent in the two months following the election should accomplish this. Then when a new governor came in, if he felt so disposed, he could right the wrong of the retired official.

Starting at the Wrong End

Government officials do queer things, and one of the queerest is the patch-work job being done now on the Den Rock road. Long a traffic hazard because it was only two lanes wide, the road a year or so ago was widened from the bridge over the Shawsheen to Wilson's corner, creating a bottle-neck situation at the river. This year two lanes have been added from the bridge to the stadium, and only one from the stadium to the lights at Winthrop avenue. By far the greater amount of traffic runs from the lights to the stadium, not from the bridge to the stadium, and yet they are stopping the job with the less important part done and the really important part undone. The proper reconstruction of that road is of great interest to Andover, for if it is made wide enough much of the heavy truck traffic that thunders down our Main street, making it an unsafe, unpleasant street to trade on, would be rerouted over the by-pass and down the Den Rock road.

Siftings

From now until January 1 most Curley acts will be Curley ax.

Jim Farley, leaving for a vacation abroad, denies that he has made any contract with the Literary Digest to run the straw vote in 1940.

Will the bonfire be burning on Andover hill or in Exeter tomorrow night?

It's still a bit early to start saving up your appetite for Thanksgiving.

Personnel in Public Service

Personnel in public service is one of the topics that the Andover League of Women Voters is studying this year, and the following article, written by the chairman of education of the local League, expresses the League's feeling on this very important matter.

By HARRIET J. GILCREAST
This year the National League of Women Voters is continuing its campaign for trained personnel in public service. The League believes that merit alone should determine the fitness of a candidate for office, without regard for such considerations as sex, marital status, service in war or place of residence. From this belief comes the slogan, "Find the Man for the Job, Not the Job for the Man." Such a policy will make for better efficiency and economy in every phase of public service.

There is perhaps no place where trained personnel is more important than in the field of education. Only those persons with the very best qualifications should be chosen for the job of running our schools and teaching our children. The knowledge that the key positions in the school system are in the hands of the proper persons will relieve parents of all worry over such matters as the conduct of courses, the management of the lunchroom, and the supervision of physical education and playgrounds.

It is very satisfying when Andover candidates are able to meet the high standards which we require of them, but it is only right, for the sake of the children for whose benefit the schools exist, that in cases where out-of-town candidates are superior they should be chosen for the vacant positions which occur. We congratulate the school board on the addition of such splendid new members to the teaching staff this year.

prize in Solfege and Viola. He then went to Paris to perfect his technique under Vieux, and was again awarded a first prize—this time in the famous Conservatory of Paris. Meanwhile he was with the Quattrochi Quartette, and played in the Lamoureux Concerts. There Dr. Koussevitzky chose him, among competitors, for the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

In playing in the Symphony, Carl Stockbridge follows in the footsteps of his father, who was one of the original Symphony members. His tone is full, free, and sympathetic, and his technique remarkably fluent and facile. He is a thorough, serious artist whose work places him well in the foreground of American cellists.

After studying in Dresden—his birthplace—and in Hamburg, Max Kunze travelled in Russia at an early age, and came to America to play at the World's Fair in Chicago with Theodore Thomas. From there he was engaged for the Boston Symphony. After playing here under Paur and Gericke, he was made first bass by Max Fiedler, remaining in this position with Muck, Monteux, and Koussevitzky. For thirty years he has been a member of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music.

Young Artists in Exhibit at Gallery

The ten Woodstock (New York) artists now exhibiting water colors and prints at the Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy, Andover through November 22, belong to that interesting group of younger artists who, two years ago, set up their own gallery in that little Catskill village. By far the larger part of the thirty or so men and women who make up the group are already recognized as artists of ability and distinction. Springing from widely different backgrounds—the east, the west, the north, the south in America—and several European countries as well are represented by the members—they have shown their work in the best galleries in America.

Of the ten exhibiting at the Addison Gallery, Lucille Blanch and Harry Gottlieb have won Guggenheim fellowships which gave them a year for travel and study abroad. Their work has been shown in all the important annual shows and they have more than once been awarded honors and prizes. Austen Mecklem, another exhibitor, has had numerous one-man shows in New York and Philadelphia and in western cities. Eugene Ludens also has work in the Whitney Museum collection and in numerous private galleries. Eugene Gershoy and Tomas Penning, best known as sculptors are represented in this exhibition by drawings and prints. Andree Ruellan and Jack Taylor rather specialize in drawings, water colors, etchings and lithographs, and their work has been exhibited in numerous one-man shows in New York and elsewhere. Henry Meloy came out of the West and reproduces many of his early western memories in the work he is doing today. Alica Atkinson, one of the younger members of the Sawkill group is at present teaching art in Brooks School, North Andover. She studied in Woodstock last summer with Henry Lee McFee and exhibited in the Sawkill and Woodstock Gallries. It is through her courtesy that this exhibition has been arranged at Andover.

Holder of Altitude Record to Speak

The thrilling story of eight hours aloft, higher than man has ever gone before, will be told by the commander of the record-breaking flight of a year ago. Major Albert W. Stevens, on the evening of November 20th, at 8:15, in the Meeting Room of Phillips Academy. An able speaker, his lecture will be enhanced by the remarkable still and moving pictures made on the flight and of the flight. There will be an admission charge of twenty-five cents.

Higher and higher has man pushed his way upward. First measuring his hops by feet, his measure of distance has changed from single feet to thousands of feet and at last to his maximum of earthly measure, miles.

On November 11, 1935 two U.S. Army Air Corps officers, Major Albert W. Stevens and Captain Orvil Anderson, went higher than has any living thing gone before, 13.71 miles. So high that 24 of 25 parts of the earth's atmosphere lay below them. So high the thin air could not open parachutes that hurtled thousands of feet earthward before air had substance enough to expand them. So high that the rotating propeller on the gondola whirled uselessly, gripping on nothing, never rotating balloon or gondola a bit. The huge balloon, Explorer II, the biggest sphere man had ever constructed, was hanging in an almost complete vacuum. Man had gone so high he had reached—nothing!

Above, sky no longer blue was a deep black. Below, the curvature of the earth was plainly seen. And photographed. So remote was earth it seemed like another planet. No activity of life was visible on it.

Inside the gondola two men worked feverishly for eight hours and thirteen minutes watching instruments of every known variety, instruments to be later cast adrift on parachutes to flutter to earth and so lighten the landing load. Plants were taken aloft, spore was carried upward, larvae of devastating fruit flies was taken along and exposed to the cosmic rays so their effect on things good and bad might be tested.

The flight, sponsored by the National Geographic Society and the U.S. Army Corps, was the third attempt of the National Geographic Society to bring the stratosphere record to America. Final triumph was its reward.

EDITORIAL—IS OUR SCHOOL

A PAYING INVESTMENT?

Stockholders in any business venture are, and should be, interested in the returns their concern is making. They have a right to be kept informed.

The taxpayers of Andover have made a considerable investment in our school plant; the grounds are attractive, the exterior of the buildings is impressive, and the interior up-to-date and well equipped. As investors the people of Andover have an interest in the results accomplished here.

The desired product is surely good American citizens—people equipped with at least a working minimum of information and some idea of how to seek out more as needed; people trained to reason on a basis of reputable facts, awake to the dangers of prejudice and ballyhoo; people imbued with the spirit of inquiry and the urge to increase their culture; people able to live acceptably among their fellow men, capable of adjusting themselves to a changing world, healthy of mind and body.

What is the Andover Junior High School doing about all this?

Of a school day of 345 minutes, 10 minutes are set aside for opening exercises—Bible reading, the Lord's prayer, and so forth; 30 minutes are taken out for lunch and relaxation; 35 minutes of each school day form what is known as utility period. On Monday and Tuesday this period is used for pupil-teacher conferences regarding school work, make-up work after absence or failure, or study. Wednesday it becomes assembly period, when patriotic observances are held, educational talks or films presented, or dramatizations related to some classroom work are given. This is the modern version of the "speak-a-piece" program. Clubs meet during Thursday's utility period; some, like the Latin club and the sewing club, provide opportunity for a group of interested students to do advanced work in the chosen field; others, the library club for instance, serve their school in some helpful way; still others offer guidance in some purely leisure-time field. Home-room meetings are held Friday, giving the home-room teacher, who is a sort of dean to those in her group, an opportunity to make contacts for guidance purposes. It may be failure in a subject or some conduct problem which needs solution.

But all this occupies only a small portion of the day. More than 78 percent of the time is devoted to study and recitation. Pupil programs differ a little in each grade but on the average six class periods a week are used for English (reading, spelling, grammar, composition), six for the social studies (history, geography, civics), five for mathematics, three for science, two for shop work (sewing, cooking, other manual training), and two for health education.

Information, reasoning, questioning, cultural influences, adjustment to people and situations, and health all have their place in our program, through which we hope to safeguard our dearly-won democracy.

APPOINT NEW TABLE CAPTAINS

The Student Council has elected table captains for the lunch room. The captains are the members of the Traffic squad and these: Madeleine Grout, Margaret Little, Eleanor Rafton, Peggy Addison, Margaret Cargill, Eleanor Doherty, Ruth Porter, Helen Walsh, Jacqueline McCarthy, Martha Tyer, Dorothy Souter, Dorothy Barnet, William Deyermund, George Brown, Joseph Payne, Stafford Lindsay, Richard Simmers, and Fred Rapisardi. These people took over their duties on Tuesday.

DEPICTS LIFE OF MAN

WITHOUT A COUNTRY

8-1 recently completed the reading of "The Man without a Country." The class was then divided into six groups, and each committee worked up one incident in the life of Philip Nolan in play form to be presented over the radio. On Tuesday they presented this to the students as a part of the Armistice Day program.

The scenes and the committees follow: Nolan wishes never to hear of the United States again: Larry Eccles, Gibson Brown, Isabelle Dobbie, Constance Forsythe, Glenna Markert and Mary Helen Brother, chairman.

Nolan mans a gun: Helen Brickett, Wright Bolton, Florence Nicoll, Vernice Moody and Ralph Manning, chairman.

Nolan interprets for the negro slaves: Helen Stott, Madeleine Grout, chairman; John Humphreys, and Helen Crocket.

Nolan returns to the boat: Frederic McDuffie, Albert Lynch, Archie MacLaren, Dorothy Miller, chairman and Nancy Smith.

Nolan inquires about Texas: Janet Carter, Peggy Little, chairman; Anne McCarthy, Eolo DeRosa, Philip Toohey.

Nolan is told of the United States: Clifford Stowers, John White, chairman; Eleanor Rafton, Barbara Pullan and Ruth Cashman.

Mary Helen Brother acted as general announcer, and she led the school in the flag salute at the close of the program.

At the beginning of the program William Ferguson spoke briefly on Armistice Day, and the school stood while Jack Pidgeon sounded taps.

PROGRAM PRESENTED

An assembly was held the last period on Thursday. Mr. Sherman showed the student body a picture, The Flag with the pledge of allegiance printed beneath it, which the Ladies Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans has given to the school. He also read a selection "What I See in My Flag."

Miss Atkinson then introduced the remainder of the program. A group of the Library club members last year presented over the radio a dramatization for Mrs. Lyons of the Junior Literary Guild Organization. Last week the cast were asked to present this again to fill in for another program. The cast presented the dramatization for the school over the new school radio. The play was taken from "Guardsman of the Coast" and revealed some of the many responsibilities which the coast guard has to face. At the end of the dramatization the members of the cast related some of their experiences while going to and from the studio and in it.

At the close of the assembly, Jackie Sherman entertained the student body with a song.—MADELEINE GROUT

GIVES TALK ON COAL

Thursday, October 29, Robert McDonald gave a talk on coal to 7-1. He brought a bottle which contained good coal and bad coal. There was a liquid chemical in the bottle which made the good coal rise to the top. After he had shown the members of the class this bottle, they went up to the science room where he used the projector to show pictures on different coal mines. He gave a very interesting talk on each picture.

LATIN CLUB

Last week the members of the Latin Club discussed Roman contests and games. They also discussed what kind of foods they ate and the way they ate it. They played a game called Latin Proverbs. This week the club has to look up stories on Roman Patriotism.—VASCO E. NUNEZ, JR.

British War Vets Conduct Services

The annual British War Veterans memorial service was held last Sunday afternoon at Christ church, with a parade from the square preceding the services. In the parade, besides the veterans, were the Legion Bugle and Drum corps and the Elsie Janis women's drill team band of Needham.

About 200 were at the church. Rev. Leslie Glenn, rector of Cambridge's Christ church, gave the address, and Miss Margaret Wynton rendered a solo: "Fear Not Ye, O Israel."

Refreshments were served at the Square and Compass hall after the services, with the social committee of the Ladies' auxiliary and the relief committee of the British War Veterans in charge.

John Greenhow directed the various activities.

Gives Lecture on Poor Merchandise

H. Lester Utley, manager of the Shaw-sheen Laundry, spoke on hidden faults in merchandise at the meeting of the A. P. C. sorority of the South church last night. In connection with his remarks he displayed some 35 to 40 garments in which there were defects before they left the factory, hidden faults which should be weeded out of the market. In his attempt to make the consumer quality-conscious Mr. Utley showed how lack of quality can be determined at the time of purchase.

This talk Mr. Utley has given several times in other towns, and in the near future he has engagements to speak in Providence, Fall River, Pawtucket and Springfield.

Refreshments were served at the meeting by a committee which included: Eleanor Jenkins, chairman; Mrs. Frederick Wallace, Mrs. George Lewis, Mrs. Carl Lindsay, Miss Margaret Campbell and Miss Louise Holt.

The next meeting, which ordinarily would have come on Thanksgiving night, has been dispensed with, and on December 10 initiation will be held.

Community Chest Work Summarized

The Fellow That Pitched Three One-Hit Games for Kingston Semi-Pro Team Is Now Chief of Police of Andover

If you attended the Boston College-Michigan football game a couple of weeks ago, or even if you didn't, you will be interested to know that the fellow in the very official-looking white leather jacket with black sleeves who was assisting the head linesman was a very prominent citizen of Andover—a man who, once a semi-pro baseball player, a barber, and a mill-worker is now the "finest of Andover's finest"—chief of police George A. Dane.

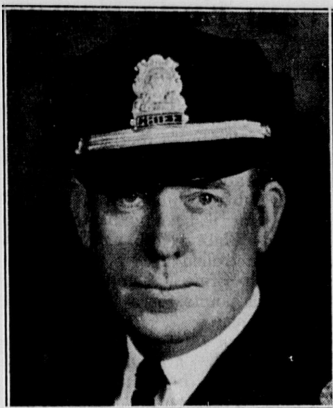

Not that George was ever much of a football player. A beautiful "shiner" in one of the first games he ever played as a child put an end to his football career, for his mother was then the maternal arm of the law, and that black eye was one too many for her. But he has done a little semi-officiating, the first game being the Thanksgiving day skirmish last year between the Brown and Colgate teams. His brother-in-law, J. T. Clinton, a star at Andover and at Yale, has been officiating for 22 years, and George was with him in the officials' room before the turkey day game. A friend of Clinton's came in—he wanted to see the game but didn't have a ticket—and at his brother-in-law's suggestion George gave the friend his ticket and saw the game himself as assistant to the head linesman.

But while his football experience is confined mainly to the side lines, George did play baseball, and was very much in demand up New Hampshire way at the time. Ballardvale had a team in those days, and one day they went up to play one of the southern New Hampshire teams. Shortly after George had an offer from the Derry team, and he accepted it: $2.00 per game plus expenses. Baseball was a very important part of the life of Derry, Raymond and Kingston in those days, and George was offered a job in a Derry shoe shop to stay with the Derry nine. Raymond and Kingston also offered him employment, but he felt that there was nothing to do in those New Hampshire towns—which will make much-maligned Ballardvale feel good. One fellow up there had an automobile, and he offered to take George to the beach nights, and to otherwise entertain him, but life in the Vale appealed more to the young man, and stay he did.

Could Be a Hold-out

There were evidently no eligibility rules in those days; it was nothing to see a man play one Saturday on one team and the next Wednesday on another. You played on the team that was willing to pay you the most, and after playing with Derry, Raymond and Kingston George reached the high of ten dollars per game plus expenses.

He started out playing shortstop, but in his last year he pitched. One day during a double-header he was sent in to pitch because there was no other hurler available, and in his first game as a pitcher he allowed only three hits, one of them a scratch hit. The largest number of hits they got off him in one game that season was six, and he pitched three one-hit games for Kingston. Tom Yawkey might check up on Ballardvale.

Chief George A. Dane

George is a little apologetic about his place of beginning. He admits he was born in Lawrence, but he hastens to explain that it was because his father had secured a position in Lawrence and the family moved there, only to move back to Andover again in three months, little George having been born in the interim on December 17, 1888. They lived in West Andover for a while, and when he was 11 they went across lots to Ballardvale. He attended the nine-grades-in-one-room Osgood school, where one of his teachers was Miss Cecelia Kydd, now Mrs. Cecelia Derrah. Later he was at the Bradlee school, where Miss Clara Putnam was the teacher. Asked if either or them ever laid the law down to him, the now chief of police answered that he never had any trouble with them, but neglected to mention whether they had any trouble with him.

Later George worked in the Ballardvale mills in every department except the wool shop and scouring. He was a dresser there for 16 years, a dresser being the man who makes the warps for the weavers. When the mill closed down, he went on the road for a coffee-grinder and store machine company, but this firm folded up after six months during a depression period when store-keepers couldn't afford to buy new equipment. Later he was at the Tyer Rubber company for a couple of years.

Used to Trim People

In the meantime the man who is now chief of police spent his nights trimming people. Nothing dishonest, you know. He bought the Ballardvale barber shop and ran it for seven years, preparing himself by going to a barber's school in Boston.

On February 25, 1914, George was married to the then Miss Margaret E. Clinton of 130 Main street. They have two daughters, Katherine and Marion.

Bob Black was killed about eleven years ago, and it was shortly after that George was appointed to the police force. He had been a reserve for about seven years, and for about six dollars a month, he took care of Ballardvale, straightening out many things which otherwise would have gone to court. He took a five dollar pay cut when he joined the force, for he had been doing considerable overtime work.

Five years later with the late Frank M. Smith failing fast he was appointed captain and the following year he became chief. In 1928 he graduated from the state police training school, and he also attended a police school in Reading. At the state school, a 32 day course, he had to get up every morning at 5:50 and they kept right at it until 10 p.m., with only one hour for recreation. In the first recreation period he was playing soccer when he and another officer crashed together against the wall in the armory. George tore the cartilages off three ribs, and the other man is now dead—pneumonia.

(Another is this series of sketches of prominent citizens will appear in next Friday's Townsman.)

Punchard Wins Twelfth Straight Game from Methuen Team

An unstoppable running attack and a bewildering passing attack gave Punchard a 19-6 win over Methuen at the local playstead Wednesday to give next year's team the ominous task of winning the thirteenth straight game for Punchard in the Methuen series.

At the start of the second period Punchard got off to a seven-point lead when Ray Lynch caught a Dushame pass, later rushing for the extra point. Lynch had received a punt on Methuen's 36, and the team had advanced to the eight, Dushame gaining two more yards before his successful toss.

A few plays later Punchard had made it 13-0. Lynch took in the kick-off on his own 15 and galloped 82 yards to the Methuen three-yard line where he was downed by the Methuen 125-pound, 15-year-old quarter, Joie Larochelle. Dushame counted on the next play.

Bisset's passing accounted for the third touchdown. With the ball on Methuen's 43, he tossed one to Sanders for 11 yards, and next one to Gibson who scored without being touched.

It wasn't until the game was nearly over that Methuen scored. Larochelle was again the hero when he grabbed in a pass for a 53 yard gain to Punchard's 27. Gibson's interception stopped the advance momentarily, but Methuen was coming back a few minutes later. A pass by Huebner was knocked into Sullivan's hands to put the ball on the three-yard line, and shortly after Saba scored.

Punchard players in the game were Gibson, Jones, Barrett, McDonald, Whiting, Robinson, Zink, Lenane, Noyes, Abbott, Noel, Flaherty, Crosby, Blamire, Sheehy, Batchelder, Sanders, Gordon, Bisset, Hanson, Miller, Noyes, Dushame, Markey, Lynch.

Andover Soccer Team Again Downs Exeter

Phillips academy's unbeaten soccer team kept its record intact again this year when Exeter went down 2-0 at Exeter on Armistice day. Since the Exeter school took up soccer several years ago, they have never defeated Jim Ryley's Andover boys.

Captain Ed Robie smashed one in in the first period to give the Andover boys a one-goal margin at the half, and in the third period Dan Swihart caged one to sew up the game.

Team Ends Perfect Preliminary Season

Routs Tufts Freshmen, 33-0, in Final Encounter

Phillips academy's football team met its sixth straight college freshman team Saturday, and when the game ended, the sixth straight freshman team had, like the five before it, been unable to cross the Blue and White goal-line. Five touchdowns were rolled up by the academy team, with Ernie Lawton scoring the three extra points for a 33-0 win over Tufts freshmen.

Andover got off to a safe lead. Two plays after the academy kicked off, Tufts punted with Seymour recovering on a blocked kick on the Jumbo 27-yard line. On the next play Ray Anderson galloped off to the first touchdown. The try for point failed. Andover again kicked off, and the ball rolled across the Jumbo goal-line where Peter Craft, alert guard, pounced on it to score a second touchdown under a situation which is not often met in football. The try again failed. On the ensuing kick-off a Tufts man fumbled, and Don Donahue recovered on the 26. Seymour gained four and Anderson made it first on the 14, with Don scoring from there. Lawton's place-kick made it 19-0 with the game not five minutes old. By this time Tufts decided it had better do the kicking-off.

A few minutes later Andover's goal-line was threatened. Marching from their own 28, Tufts made four first downs before losing the ball on downs on the two-yard line. In the second half Kausel scored on a march from Andover's 40, with Johnnie Murphy, Tyne, Townson, Lawton and Kausel playing a prominent part. Lawton's kick was again good. Another academy touchdown threat was ended a few minutes later when an academy fumble was recovered by a Tufts man on the Tufts three-yard line. Hearne recovered two fumbles prior to this.

Don Donahue made a sweet 36-yard run shortly after the second half opened on a fake kick play, and after two first downs, Anderson went across but the play was called back on a penalty. Anderson returned a Jumbo punt 30 yards, and Don Donahue, with the prettiest reverse seen on the Hill in years, made 29 more yards, failing to score only when he tripped over himself on the one-yard line. Seymour went across for the six points, and Lawton again converted. The fourth period saw the Andover goal-line continually threatened. Once a very definite break saved the goal-line, and another time Johnnie Murphy intercepted a pass and ran 30 yards to keep the academy record clean.

LOCAL BOY IN NEWS REEL

The news reel at the Colonial Theatre this week contained the picture of Malcolm B. McTernan of Wolcott avenue scoring the first Harvard touchdown in 16 years against Princeton during the Harvard-Princeton game at the Harvard Stadium recently.

Mac also made several runs in the Virginia game last Saturday, one being for 35 yards off the Virginia right tackle.

left tackle, and Horace Poynter, Jr., an Andover boy who tips the scales at 166, will probably hold down the other tackle position. Dick Gould, 192 pounds, John McDonald, 206 pounds, John Sosman, 178, and Larry White, 176, will also probably see action at tackles. White, who played at St. Paul's last year, did a fine defensive job at tackle last Saturday.

Delaney Kipthuth, son of Yale's swimming coach, and Pete Craft, 168 pound iron man, will be at the guard positions. Howie Selby will be a relief man. Captain Caperton Burnam will be in for a play or two; he was injured early in the year. Joe Dempsey, 194 pound Brooklyn boy, a veteran will be pivot man, Tenney and Munsey to relieve him.

Shawsheen A. A. in Scoreless Tie

Hammering and pounding at the Lawrence Crusaders line to no avail, the Shawsheen A.A. football team played a scoreless tie in the first annual Boosters' day at the playstead last Saturday. The proceeds will be used for Thanksgiving baskets.

The Crusaders had had an undefeated season, and this was the first time they had been tied. Outweighed but not outplayed the village lads twice during the third period threatened to remove the Crusaders from the undefeated list, but the bulkier line threw the local plungers back. Ben Forbes smashed at the Crusader stone wall on the three-yard line, but couldn't plough through. Later Ben completed a forward to Bob Burnham to bring the Shawsheen team deep into Crusader territory, but they couldn't penetrate the line for a score.

Administer Second Defeat to Andover

For the second time in two weeks the Andover A.A. defeated the Exeter Bears last Sunday at the local playstead 13 to 6. The local team got off to an early lead which was added to in the third period and which the Exonians, staging one of the finest last period rallies seen here this season, nearly wiped out in the final quarter.

A pass, Hilton to Tammany, accounted for the first touchdown, with Hilton failing in the try for point. In the third period Pete O'Connor made the score 12-0 when he snared a 30-yard pass, and Tammany added the extra point on a pass from Hilton.

The final period kept the spectators on pins and needles. LaPearl scored for the Exonians when he intercepted a pass and ran 80 yards. A few minutes later they had marched to the Andover three-yard line, only to lose the ball on downs. Several other times Luce, star Exeter back, got loose and electrified the stands, but the local eleven managed to prevent a score.

V.F.W. HOLDS BANQUET

The V.F.W. held its annual banquet in the post rooms Wednesday evening, with the auxiliary as invited guests. About 80 were present. Free beano was held for grocery prizes provided by the post.

James Hennessey, master of the Oliver school in Lawrence, spoke last night at the Service club meeting on "Thoughts in a New School." The club held the usual dinner in the new school cafeteria, later adjourning to the music room for Mr. Hennessey's talk.

The speaker spoke on the trend toward getting more and more education. Mentioning the so-called fads, he asked if it were more important to teach the children how to multiply fractions than it was to teach them something useful. He stated that the home, with parents finding no time for their children, is throwing more and more onto the schools, which he said have to serve as a counteracting influence to the influence of the radio, movies and the "gang."

Fences Should Be on Side of Highways Instead of Inside Cars

Andover's Sudden Death Series

(This photograph was taken of an accident here in Andover by the local police department. The accompanying article is another in a series of articles on Sudden Death in Andover.)

There are two ways of looking at the miraculous escape from death that the occupants of the above car experienced last spring on an Andover road. If the woman passenger had been sitting in the seat at the right of the driver, she would have certainly been killed when the rails of the fence pierced through the dashboard, but on the other hand if she hadn't been sitting in the driver's lap, he probably would not have crashed into the fence. And the chances are too that if both hadn't been drinking, she wouldn't have hindered his already greatly hindered driving.

And there's another lesson in the above crash. No matter how important you think you are, there's no sense in taking chances. The driver in the above car is one of the prominent citizens of another community; in fact, he was thinking of running for mayor. He was very sure that the local police department knew nothing of the facts behind the strange crash, and he stopped Chief Dane in the court corridor before the trial on a charge of operating to endanger. "I'm going to fight this," he shouted pompously. "That's up to you," said George. "You know you can't get anywhere on it, though, because we know more than you think we do about this. We know that you'd been drinking, and we know that that woman was sitting in your lap when the crash happened." And he walked away. The driver followed him, and said: "How big a fine will I get if I plead guilty?"

He did plead guilty, and of course the above testimony never went before the court. The fine was a mere $25.

The driver failed to make the turn in the road, and he tore down eleven rails before the two in the picture crashed through the car. One rail went through the radiator, through the motor, through the dashboard right up to the front seat.

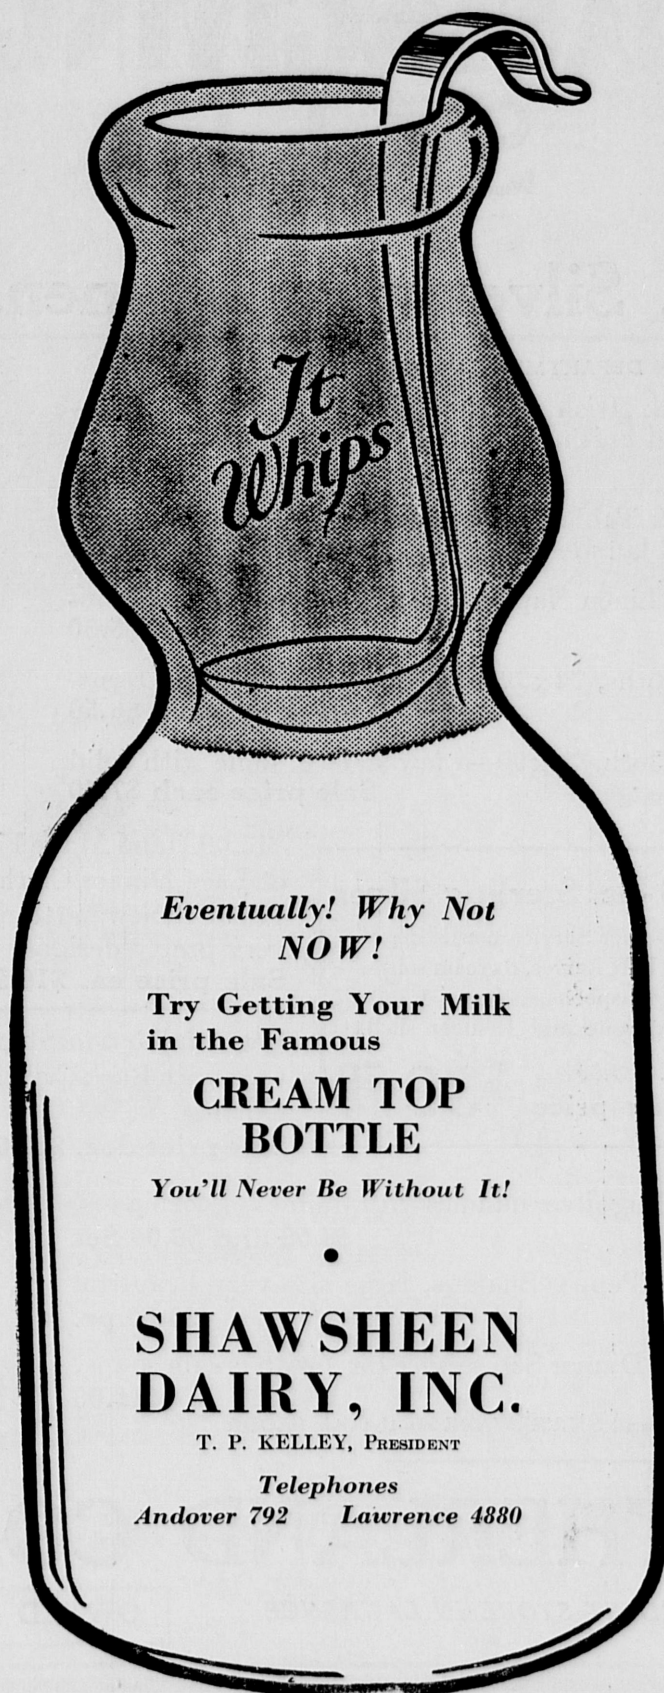

The other went even further, crashing through the front seat, through the upholstery in the back seat and embedded itself against the metal at the rear of the car.

If anyone had been sitting there at the right of the driver, his stomach would have been gored by the first rail and the second would have pierced his chest. It would have meant instantaneous death.

The woman's leg in the above case was slightly hurt, and the driver wasn't even scratched. Various were the efforts to cover up. She was taken to the hospital where her doctor entered her as a private patient. Then the driver called a garage in his own town to have the car towed away—but he forgot to tell them to bring along a very necessary tool: a saw.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Andover Male Choir will hold a bridge and whist party on Saturday evening, November 14 at eight o'clock at the home of Miss Marion L. Abbott.
